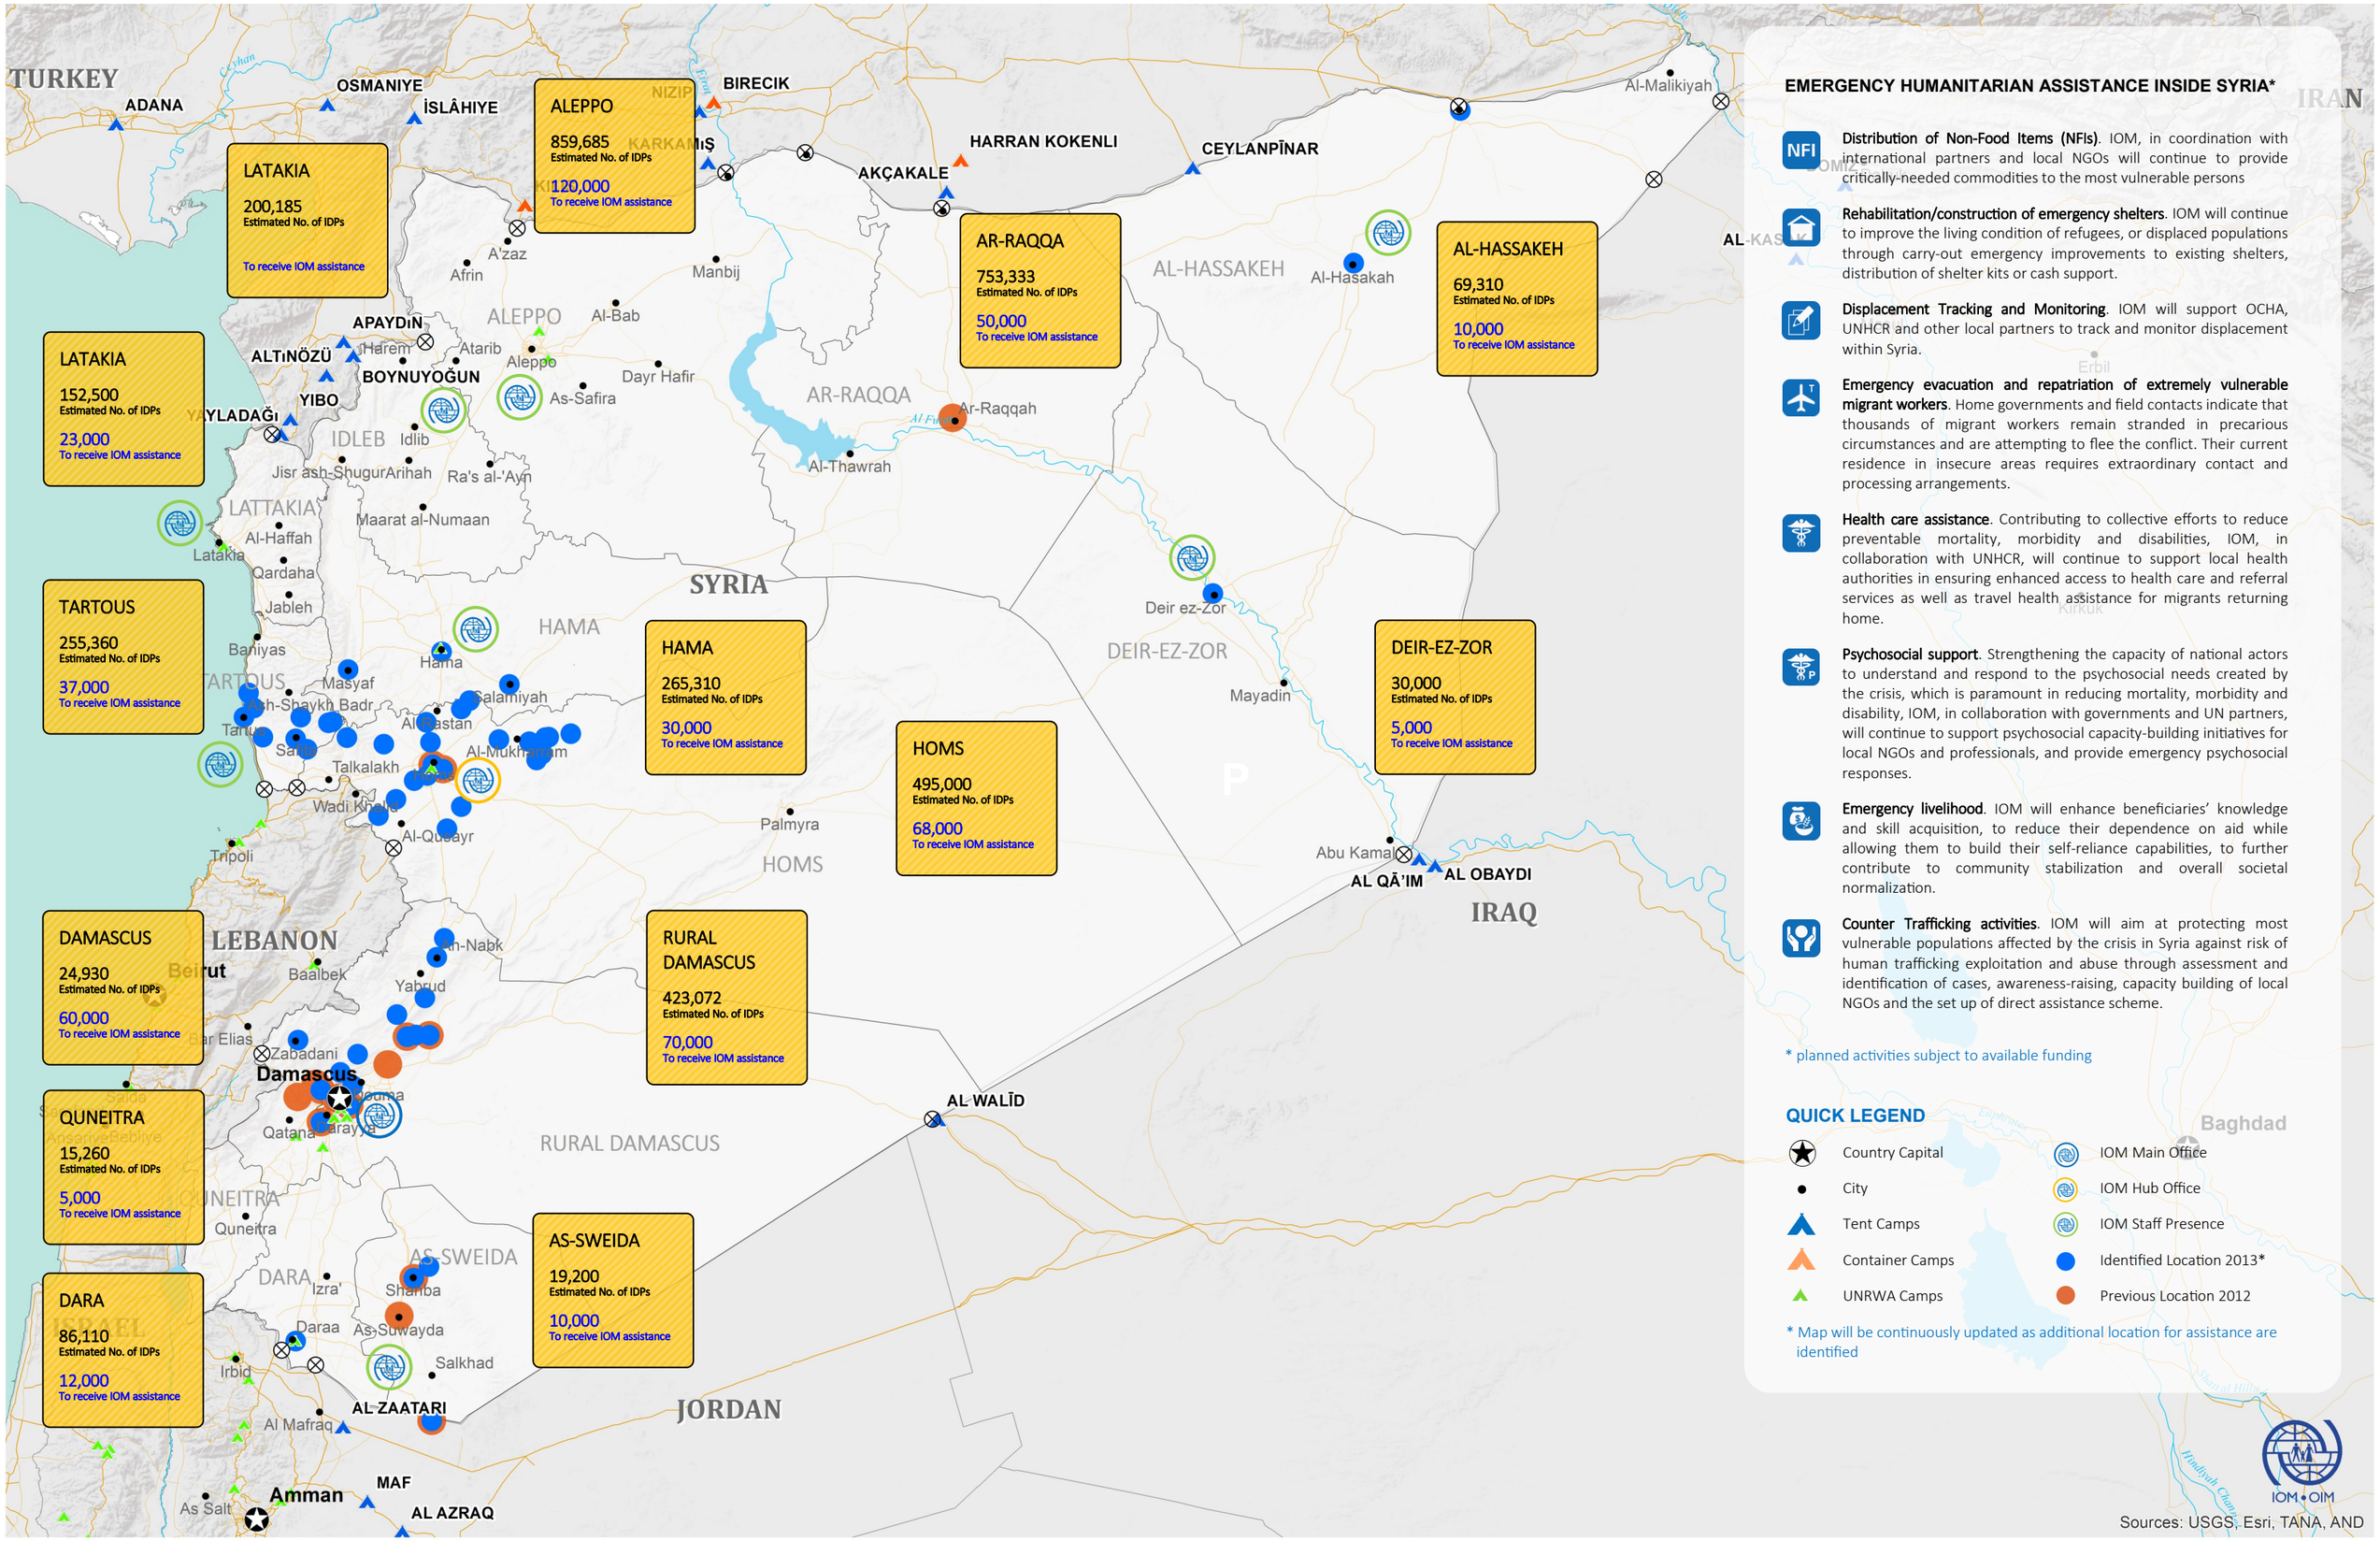
IOM ACTIVITIES PLANNING MAP FOR SYRIA

7 JUNE 2013 • International Organization for Migration Syrian Arab Republic



EMERGENCY HUMANITARIAN ASSISTANCE INSIDE SYRIA*

Distribution of Non-Food Items (NFIs). IOM, in coordination with international partners and local NGOs will continue to provide critically-needed commodities to the most vulnerable persons

Rehabilitation/construction of emergency shelters. IOM will continue to improve the living condition of refugees, or displaced populations through carry-out emergency improvements to existing shelters, distribution of shelter kits or cash support.

Displacement Tracking and Monitoring. IOM will support OCHA, UNHCR and other local partners to track and monitor displacement within Syria.

Emergency evacuation and repatriation of extremely vulnerable migrant workers. Home governments and field contacts indicate that thousands of migrant workers remain stranded in precarious circumstances and are attempting to flee the conflict. Their current residence in insecure areas requires extraordinary contact and processing arrangements.

Health care assistance. Contributing to collective efforts to reduce preventable mortality, morbidity and disabilities, IOM, in collaboration with UNHCR, will continue to support local health authorities in ensuring enhanced access to health care and referral services as well as travel health assistance for migrants returning home.

Psychosocial support. Strengthening the capacity of national actors to understand and respond to the psychosocial needs created by the crisis, which is paramount in reducing mortality, morbidity and disability, IOM, in collaboration with governments and UN partners, will continue to support psychosocial capacity-building initiatives for local NGOs and professionals, and provide emergency psychosocial responses.

Emergency livelihood. IOM will enhance beneficiaries' knowledge and skill acquisition, to reduce their dependence on aid while allowing them to build their self-reliance capabilities, to further contribute to community stabilization and overall societal normalization.

Counter Trafficking activities. IOM will aim at protecting most vulnerable populations affected by the crisis in Syria against risk of human trafficking exploitation and abuse through assessment and identification of cases, awareness-raising, capacity building of local NGOs and the set up of direct assistance scheme.
